New York, by the mob who have torn up the telegraph posts, so you know exactly what we do, by the newspapers. I should say, judging by the title we do hear, that it must be our by this time, for the mob's

Executive Jones seem to have been less than the Fernandy planning Jones. They stop to get drunk, plunder & so on, - & as soon as the Mayor & John Wood get organized, I dare say all will be set right again.

Pity to ~~have~~ happened now, it will encourage Lee so much: but ultimately it will prove a false step.
Not to him, like so many pro-slavery ones heretofore.

with Mary yesterday morn'g for N.Y. Mary was to go to Mr. Gray, & the rest to Catskill. We shall, most likely, hear to night, whether they went or not, for Henry was to come up here, — probably will, this afternoon.
Deanna is going down to the Station to wait for him. Every train is being delayed, for they go so slowly, having reason to apprehend that the rails or Bridges may be destroyed. This is a bad neighborhood.

Eleanor says they always make a difference about raising the flag & that when our folks hear the news of the victory they could not get a cheer. But it is not a place of much account.

Mr Kennedy & Delano just in, say letters for north direct. So I write to you to say we are all well & yours
